

Fukuoka University : Day 4

July 30,2016

This is the first day that I go to the Fukuoka University. Today, I met with many Japanese students. We can be good friends to each other. When we finished together with this breakthrough project, we had to walk around the campus, which is huge and very clean proportion of the food as well. They have a library with thousands of students are reading and writing intently. After a campus visit, we had to sing karaoke together. Karaoke in Japan is different from Thailand. In my country does karaoke at the building on each floor. We have only a few rooms which is located at the Bowling Alley. I'm very excited with audio joy sound done very well. This is another one that I'm happy.
