

Life in Fukuoka

By Ruthai Thaveechulavong

July 29, 2016

In the morning, I moved from seminar house to Neko's guesthouse for stay during my time in Fukuoka. The owner of guesthouse is Neko, meaning cat in english, she is very kind and friendly. She took me to walk around the guesthouse area. It's near Asahi Factory, supermarket and Takeshita Station. In my room, I stay with Kan and Earth who are Thai students.

In the lunch, Prof. Abiru took me to Prowjai Restaurant where is a Thai restaurant in Fukuoka. At the restaurant, I met group of businessmen who have some project with Thailand. For example, Mr. Tanaka Mizuhiro who is a CEO of Tanaka Food Industry Corporation and Ohkawa Transportation Company, Mr. Eiji Muto who is a councilor of Fukuoka, Mr. Yoshi Uchiki who is a consultant of Plant process system design, and Mr. Phatai Sooksommai who is a Executive Director of Thailand Knowledge Institute of International Trade and he is a Prowjai Restaurant's owner. We ate Thai foods such as

"Pad Krapow Moo" → Pork with Thai Basil

"Kang Keaw Wan Kai" → Chicken with Green Curry

All of that is not spicy at all but if you order that in Thailand, everything is so spicy.

In the evening, I went to Daimyo Street for sightseeing and shopping. From what I observed, everything of goods in Japan is more expensive than Thailand. After that I returned to my guesthouse by train.

