Today I, Koyo, Kensiro and Shiro have a plan to go Hiraodai. So we got up early and we took a train from Kikugaoka Station where is near Kensiro's home to Ishihara-machi Station.

At the station, we took a taxi directly to Senbutsu Cave. This cave designated as a famous cave that is acknowledged as a Japanese special nature treasure. The route has about 700 meters long. Some places also have natural ground rivers. When I went inside to the cave, I'm surprised because the whole cave was cold and damp. And there was water dripping on us the whole time.

After the cave, we walked around and admired the karst landscape. It was a wonderful place and relaxing hike. Then we decided to skip the taxi ride back to the train station so we walked down from The mountain. I think we took a time around 1.5 hour from the mountain to train station. It's so far and I tired so much.

After that, we went to lunch at ramen restaurant where is a famous restaurant near Kensiro's home. I ordered Miso ramen. This soup is very tasteful and yummy. When finished lunch, we took some rest at Kensiro's home before I and Koyo will come back to Fukuoka.

At the evening, I and Koyo came back to Fukuoka by bus. On the way to Fukuoka, we talked a lot of topics. We exchanged our thinking about Thailand and Japan. I think Koyo is my best friend in Fukuoka. He is kind and very funny. Today I'm tired so much but this trip is a best memories in Kyushu for me. Everyone are nice to me. They can't speak English as well but they tried to communicate with me in English. Sometimes we can't understand each other so we used Google translate for communicate each other. This trip is a lot of fun. I enjoyed and impressed very much.
